To the Hon. the Senate and House of Representatives, in Legislature assembled,

THE undersigned beg leave to represent that a Boom from Ayer's Island, at Stillwater, to extend up and across the main Penobscot River through a portion of Ayer's Falls to the eastern shore, would greatly accommodate and advantage the Mills and those interested in the manufacture of Lumber at that place, and in case of injury in the boom above or the escape of logs or other lumber, would afford to the owners and others great facilities in the preservation of their property and save to the community a large amount of property which now annually passes down said river into tide waters, or below the mills where they can be safely and advantageously manufactured.

Wherefore we pray your hon body to grant us an Act of Incorporation, with such immunities and restrictions as may seem just and as will subserve the interests aforesaid. And as in duty bound will ever pray.

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

BANGOR,

MONDAY, JANUARY 29, 1838.

Messrs. Merchant & Smith:

I withdraw my name from the further consideration of my fellow citizens as a candidate for the office of Mayor and I assure them that, with my understanding of the prospective duties of the office, it is as little desirable to me, as my election to it last Saturday was indifferent to them. Respectfully, &c:

JOHN WILKINS.

Jan. 29, 1838.

CONGRESS.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22d and 23d.

In the House, the Cherokee subject came up for discussion. Mr. Everett, of Vermont, moved that the memorial of the Cherokee Delegation, remonstrating against the pretended treaty of removal, be taken up and referred to the Committee on Indian affairs. This Memorial represents the alleged treaty to be fraudulent and void, and prays the interference of Congress to prevent the execution of it on the part of the Executive

Mr Everett spoke at length in support of his motion. He was opposed by Haynes of Georgia, who moved that the memorial be laid upon the table this motion was lost by a vote of 94 to 91. Mr. Haynes then made another attempt to defeat the purpose of the memorial by moving its indefinite postponement In the midst of the debate upon this motion, the order of the day was called for (the Mississippi contested election), and Foster continued his tedious harangue attempting to reply to the arguments of Prentiss.

The Senate was engaged in the discussion of the various sections of Mr Grundy's Bill, to prevent the occurrence of steamboat disasters

Mr Black, Senator from Mississippi, resigned his seat in that body.

In the House, on the 23d the Florida War came up for discussion, upon the introduction of several communications from the Secretary of War, urging new and immediate appropriations for the prosecution of the War to the amount of a million of dollars, and alleging that all the past appropriations were expended, and the drafts of the Contractors upon the War department were lying over under protest

The rules were suspended, and the House went into a committee of the whole upon a Bill reported by Mr. Cambreleng granting the requisite appropriation. Upon Mr Cambreleng's motion that the Bill be immediately passed, Mr Wise of Virginia made one of his happiest speeches. The correspondent of the Boston Atlas says

Mr Wise made a most eloquent speech, in which he said he would not consent to vote one dollar more, till he could know how the money already appropriated had been expended. This was the way in which the appropriations for this war had been extracted from the House. Opportunities had been watched for to bring forward bills, in such a way that all discussion might be prevented, under pretence that the necessity was so urgent that there was no time for debate According to the best information that he could obtain, there was at present, no war in Florida, except a war kept up and carried on by officers of the government, and persons in the territory, who were fattening and growing rich upon the spoils. There was good proof, which, if a Committee could be given him he would produce, that such were the facts. He would never vote for a single cent of additional appropriation, till the true state of facts was inquired into.

Downing, the Florida Delegate, protested that the war was the most just and good war that was ever carried on; and that the protraction of it was entirely owing to the sympathy expressed for the Indians, in this House, and in the country, from the pulpit and from the press. If the gallows had been used upon the Indians, as it ought to have been, if the voice of sympathy had never been heard, the war would have been ended long ago. As to the people of Florida, they were the most honest and most abused people in the world, and as to their fattening upon the spoils, it was quite out of the question. So far from being disbursing officers being profuse in their expenditures, they were not half free enough to pay. The Floridians had served the government for six dollars a month, and now they wanted their pay, and could the House refuse it. He wished the gentleman to have a Committee, and he would undertake, before that Committee, to justify to the fullest extent, every individual act which the government had done.

In the course of his tirade, which was very ferocious, wild, wandering and ridiculous, he gave notice that he should soon have the honor of introducing a bill to admit the territory of Florida, as one of the States of the Union!

He also charged the Cherokee mediators, who had gone into Florida, with treason, accusing them of having stimulated the Seminoles to continue the war. He made this charge upon the authority of the Florida newspapers, and of three letters which he had received from the Territory.

He declared that however much Florida might be dispersed as a Territory, the inhabitants would resist, with arms in their hands, any attempt to let the Indians remain in the Territory, as they would any attempt to free their slaves.

He is still going on with a rigmarole of abuse, [illegible] himself to be so thorough an Indian hater [illegible] ever raved and [illegible]ted.

UPPER CANADA The account of the defeat of the invaders of Upper Canada, and the capture of a schooner near Bois Blanc by the Loyalists, published in our paper of Saturday, is partially confirmed. That account of the affair was taken from Canadian papers. The following is from the Baltimore Sun.

Through the politeness of Mr. Clark of Boston, who arrived in this city last evening from Monroe, Michigan, which place he left on the 11th, we have been put in possession of the following important additional intelligence from that quarter.

A large number of troops from Cleaveland and Detroit, under the command of Col Dodge, left Monroe on the 7th in a schooner, and were joined at Gibraltar on the 8th by Col Sutherland, together with several boats, scows, &c. having 250 stand of arms, three field pieces, a large stock of provisions, &c the most of which was put on board the schooner for Bois Blanc, a British Island, opposite Malden, where they proposed making an attack on the British forces stationed there, and then proceed to Malden, Sandwich, and London. While on their way to the Island, the schooner, containing 30 men, separated from the rest of the fleet, and run along within gun shot of the Loyalists, whence they were hailed by the sentinel, but returning no answer, were threatened with an attack. They were told to fire and be d d, which threat was immediately put into execution, and promptly returned by the Patriots, the latter killing, as was reported, about sixty of the Loyalists, without receiving any injury themselves. On the evening of the 9th, the schooner made another attempt to reconnoitre, when a squall coming up, she grounded, and the Loyalists commenced another cannonading, which was returned by the Patriots, and resulted in the loss of 14 of the latter killed, when the schooner surrendered. Cols. Dodge, and Sutherland both wounded

Our informant further states, that Gov. Mason of Michigan, made a demand on the remainder of the patriot forces, for the arms which had been forcibly taken from that State, which demand was complied with, and the patriot force disbanded. Great excitement is said to prevail along the whole frontier, and a disposition is manifested by the whole people to engage in an expedition against the Canadian government notwithstanding the reverses the patriots have thus far met with.

From the Kingston, U. C. Herald, Jan 16

The Traveller also brings the account of a gallant action at Amherstburgh. A gang of pirates robbed the arsenal at Detroit, loaded a schooner with the spoils and sailed to Amherstburgh, and fired on the town.

The inhabitants had no arms, but they collected in the night armed with pitchforks, and whatever came to hand; they then attacked and captured the schooner, killing one man and taking 12 prisoners, with 400 stand of arms, 3 cannon and a large supply of munitions of war. Thus in every quarter defeat and ruin wait on the rebels and pirates.

By the latest accounts from Buffalo, it appears, that two steamboats, the Barcelona, and Robert Fulton have been chartered by the U. S. Government. The former under the command of Lieut Thomas of the Navy, left Buffalo Saturday, the 20th inst. destination unknown.

The schooner Savannah, having on board a large body of men bound to Dunkirk, was seized at Buffalo by the collector.

The State cannon, which had been received from the Navy Islanders, have again gone into the possesion of the invaders, through fraud and forgery, as appears by the following from the Buffalo Advertiser.

Day before yesterday, Colonel Ransom, commanding the militia at Tonawanda, received a letter through the Post Office, purporting to be written by Gen. Scott, ordering him to deliver to certain teamsters the cannon belonging to the State, which had been left in his custody. The circumstances that this order went through the post office, and the totally unmilitary character of the address, excited Col R's suspicions that all was not right, and before complying with it, he called upon a gentleman of Tonawanda, and showed him the document, who assured him that he was acquainted with Gen. Scott's hand writing, and believed the order to be written by him. The cannon were accordingly given up. Where they are no one can tell, but every one can guess in whose possession they are.

Yesterday, however, Col Ransom, to make assurance doubly sure, sent a despatch to Gen. Scott advising of the facts; but we understand that the bearer saw fit to delay delivering for some hours after he arrived in town.

It appeared upon investigation, that the order from Gen. S. was a forgery, and that some person or persons adopted this course, in order to recover these guns from the protection of the State, to which they had been surrendered only so long as suited their purposes.

The order was in the following words:

"Buffalo, Head Quarters, Jan. 18, 1838.

"Col H. B. Ransom, Com.-in-chief, at Tonawanda.

"Please send on those pieces of cannon, which are stopped at your place. Let the team come on with them. Yours in haste,

W. SCOTT,

Commander-in-chief of the frontier of Niagara."

MR. WEBSTER AND THE GLOBE.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.

In the Senate this morning, Mr Webster rose and remarked that having received a few days ago, from unquestionable authority, information of the manner in which the fishing bounties and pensions had been disbursed by the agents in Boston that a large amount of the bills of the Commonwealth Bank had been paid out for those purposes, and that the Bank soon after stopped payment, he accordingly instituted an inquiry into the facts of the case, in accordance with what he conceived his duty.

In consequence of this public proceeding, dictated on his part by nothing but a sense of obligation, the official paper of the Administration, the conductors of which are the printers to this body, on Saturday last published the following article.

[Mr. Webster here read the Globe's article headed "Debtors to the Commonwealth Bank." It charges Mr. W., if we recollect right, with owing the Commonwealth Bank $10,000.]

Mr Webster said he could not repel such an outrage, otherwise than by denying the statement in his place. "Now, sir," continued Mr W. "I owe this Bank a dollar. I am not conscious of it. If I ever did owe it a dollar, I do not remember it; nor do I recollect or believe that any note signed by me, or any bill accepted by me, or by any agent or clerk in my employ, has ever been protested at that Bank, or payment even delayed.

Having said this much, he hoped to be relieved from making any remarks of his own on the character of the publication He would only read a remark of the editor himself, found in the same column, which is as follows.

[See Globe "These attacks upon the private concerns of public men," &c.

"So," said Mr Webster "thinks the editor, and I for once, fully concur with him."

All the editors of the Globe were at the time in the Senate. Comment is unnecessary.

[illegible] that Shilometh S. Whipple was appointed Chairman of the new [illegible] on State Lands to supply the vacancy occasioned by the death of Hon. Lucius Barnard.

Reports of the committee on Interior Waters came from the Senate and were accepted in concurrence.

On motion of Mr. Codman of Portland, the bill entitled an additional act concerning the public money apportioned to the State of Maine, was taken up, and several amendments offered by Mr. Codman adopted. The bill as amended is as follows:

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in Legislature assembled, That the several cities, towns, and plantations, in this State, are released and exonerated from all obligations imposed on them by an act entitled an act providing for the disposition and repayment of the public money apportioned to the State of Maine on deposite, by the Government of the United States, passed March eighth, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and thirty-seven; to restore or pay over to the State the sums of money respectively deposited with them by virtue of said act, and they are hereby authorised and empowered at their annual meetings in the months of March and April, to distribute the same, "per capita" among the inhabitants of such cities, towns, and plantations, or otherwise dispose of the same as they shall see fit.

SEC. 2 Be it further enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act be, and are hereby repealed; and this act shall take effect and be in force as soon as it shall be approved by the Governor

Mr. Sheldon offered an amendment, providing that no city, town, or plantation, shall distribute per capita its share of the public money, if it has already voted to invest the same for the support of town schools.

Mr S. said he had offered his amendment because he believed, if adopted, it would prevent much excitement in towns that had already decided how the public money apportioned to them should be distributed.

Mr. Delesdernier opposed the motion of Mr. Sheldon, because he believed that it was unjust to deprive some of the towns of a liberty in the use of their money which it was the main object of the bill to bestow the amendment was inconsistent with the bill. The towns themselves should be the judges whether their proportion of the public money should be put to this use or that; and if they had done any thing which they had repented of, he saw no good reason why they should be refused the right to correct themselves.

Mr. Appleton agreed with Mr. Delesdernier The most acceptable feature of the bill would be mutilated by the amendment. But Mr. A. said he objected to the bill as well as the amendment

The Chair. The question is on the amendment.

Mr Appleton objected to restricting some towns and giving freedom to others. He preferred that towns should do as they pleased with their money.

Mr Paine of Sandford said he understood the objects of the bill were to give the majority of the people liberty to determine the manner of distribution. He had supposed the bill would pass without amendment or discussion. As he did not expect any amendment would be offered to the bill, he was much surprised that one should be offered wholly inconsistent with its provisions. It had been truly said that the bill, if the amendment passed, would extend liberty of action to some and restrain it in others. He believed that the proper import of general laws should be to operate upon all alike. If the majority should always rule, they should rule in this case. He hoped the amendment would be rejected

Mr Sheldon replied that the doctrine that the majority should rule was embraced by himself with as much warmth as by the gentleman from Sandford. His amendment was predicated, in part, upon that doctrine. After the State had enacted that the Public Money which it had received from the United States should be transmitted to the towns, some of those towns declared by a "majority" of its voters in legal town meeting, that the money so transmitted should be appropriated to the erection of town houses; some have built poor houses, and others have built bridges, &c. public works which would benefit not only the people of the present generation, but those of generations to come. These investments, it must be admitted, were of a very beneficial character. But the appropriations for the benefit of primary schools were far preferable to these they were investments which raised the condition of these schools, which having been advanced, the condition of Seminaries would be advanced. All can see that the benefit given to those is not only of a public but a permanent nature a benefit which will expand and strengthen with time. In view of these benefits, who can consent that it shall be within the power of a few restless demagogues, that may chance to live in a town which has thus wisely invested its money, to raise up an excitement and dig up the seeds of intelligence, implanted in the community, and thwart the will of a majority which has been fairly and legally expressed? The importance of supporting primary schools had received the favorable attention of the Governor in his speech; and it was also deserving the attention of the House.

Messrs. Prescott of Farmington and Webster continued the debate in remarks inaudible to the reporter, at the conclusion of which, the question on the amendment was taken and lost yeas 12, nays 97.

Mr Appleton then moved an amendment, striking out all after the enacting clause and inserting a new bill. A discussion arose out of this proposition which was conducted by Messrs Appleton, Goodenow and Codman till the House adjourned.

W. L. MACKENZIE. For some days past we have not heard Mackenzie's name mentioned, and no one seems to know any thing respecting his whereabouts. It is of very little consequence where he goes, he will be a demagogue and agitator in any place. On the evening of his arrest, we understand that he was extreemly abusive. Although treated in the most gentlemanly and forbearing manner by the Marshal and several of his deputies who were in attendance, his conversation, for two hours, was a perfect tirade of vulgar abuse of our country, its laws, its officers generally, and of those present in particular. So outrageous and unreasonable was he, that several of his friends, among whom were his legal advisers, were perfectly disgusted with his conduct. We are not surprised at the swamping of any course which depends on such a leade. [Buffalo Adv.

COLLECTOR'S NOTICE.
TAXES MUST BE PAID.

MANY of the good people of this City have had "line upon line, and precept upon precept," by way of polite and pressing invitations, to pay their taxes. The strong language of the Assessor's Warrants for the year 1837, as committed to me, will not allow of further parley or delay. Every resident of the city, who has not yet paid his tax, is earnestly called upon to neglect no longer this necessary and important duty; as in such matters "delays are dangerous."

Non Residents should look out in order that the Collector does not make too great a profit in advertising and selling their lands for taxes of 1837. The only way to prevent this is, by calling immediately and paying the tax.

☞ The Collector will be at the City Hall from 9 to 10 A. M. and from 2 to 3 o'clock, P. M.
